A county resident was killed and at least seven persons were injured in traffic accidents here and in the district over the weekend.

State patrol officers of Salem were kept busy as they investigated at least a dozen mishaps. Several drivers were arrested.

Throughout Ohio 22 persons met violent deaths Saturday and Sunday.

Jesse Allard, 55, an East Liverpool carpenter, died in East Liverpool City hospital yesterday of injuries received when struck by a bus shortly after alighting from a street car.

According to police, Allard walked into the path of the bus after stepping from behind a parked automobile. He leaves his wife and a stepson, Roy E. Little.

Alliance Man Killed

Coroners D. H. Houser of Mahoning county and Dr. C. E. Reno of Stark county opened an investigation of the mishap which claimed the life of William Kendrick, 57, of Alliance, who was killed when struck by an automobile on the Sebring-Alliance road early Sunday.

Seven persons were treated at Salem City hospital for injuries received in accidents here.

Samuel Naugle, 57, of the Franklin road, suffered a double fracture of the right leg when he is reported to have stepped in front of a machine driven by Andrew DeJure of 198 E. State st., at the intersection of S. Lincoln ave., and Franklin st., at 11:55 p. m. Saturday.

He was taken to City hospital by Deane Patrolmen George Reash and Clifford Todd reported. Naugle's condition is fair.

Auto Overturns

Norman Duke, 45, of Leetonia, received a fractured right leg at 9 p. m. when struck by a car driven by John Stoffer, 20, of Washingtonville, as he walked along Route 344, one-quarter of a mile west of Columbiana. Stoffer, blinded by lights of another car, didn't see Dyke in front of him.

He was admitted to Salem City hospital at 9:45. His condition today is described as fair.

Four persons were treated for injuries at City hospital at 9 a. m. Sunday after their car, driven by Mrs. William Thomas, 38, of Cleveland, left the road on Route 14, five miles northwest of Salem, and overturned.

Mrs. Thomas suffered a chest injury; her husband, aged 40, treatment for wounds to the top of his head; Ainsworth Aitken, 41, also of Cleveland, laceration above right eye and cheek injury, and his wife, Elmore, 36, a back injury. All were dismissed following first aid treatment.

Wilford Hosack 22, of East Palestine, was treated at City hospital at 3:30 a. m. Sunday for lacerations above the left eye and other facial cuts, suffered when his automobile left the road four miles north of East Palestine and upset. Hosack said he fell asleep.

Truck Somersaults

Joseph Kireta, of Summitville, driving a truck on Route 9, escaped unhurt when his machine left the road on a curve, hit a

Former Damascus Boy, Now On Nazi Front, "Tuckered" After Trailing Der Fuehrer

Melvin K. Whiteleather Describes Killing Pace Set
By Vegetarian Hitler At Annual Nazi Congress

(Editor's note—Melvin K. Whiteleather is a brother of Mrs. Emanuel Grise and Mrs. L. S. Strawn of Damascus, and a former Damascus resident himself. While visiting in Damascus, Salem and other district points this summer he gave many interesting descriptions of his experiences abroad as an Associated Press correspondent.)

By MELVIN K. WHITELEATHER
NURNBERG, Germany, Sept. 13—I kept pace with Adolf Hitler five hours yesterday, and I wanted to sleep till noon today.

It's a killing pace the vegetarian bachelor Fuehrer sets his people at the annual Nazi party congress, a strenuous tempo that left me fatigued from following his heels only part of the crowded day.

The day started soon after midnight. A rap on my door roused me at 1:15 a. m. and a strange voice called: "We want a word with you."

"The secret police?" I asked myself. Sure enough, a black-uniformed guard was with a civilian at the door. In the face of my obvious nervousness the guard said he was "sorry, but orders are orders."

Invited to Rally

"You are invited to go to the stormtrooper rally with Der Fuehrer and to lunch with him in castle today," the guard announced.

Promptly at the appointed hour of 7 a. m. I was walking with a black-uniformed guard through tightly guarded lines to Hitler's hotel which he commandeers entirely for his Nazi leaders.

We rode to Luitpold arena ahead of Der Fuehrer through solid lines of guards and were in the stands when he arrived to speak to 100,000 stormtroopers.

Hitler spoke for half an hour and concentrated new party standards with the Nazis' sacred "blood flag" stained in the abortive Munich beerhall putsch in 1923. This ceremony lasted two and a half hours.

Then we rushed out and rode in open cars to the hilltop castle through three miles of the wildest cheering.

Behind us were three cars loaded with husky black-uniformed guardsmen. Save for his eyes Hitler looked fresh and rested after the long public appearance. His eyes, however,

Christmas Seals For 1937 to Make Debut During Fair

An advance showing of the 1937 Christmas seals will be made at the Columbiana county fair in Lisbon Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of this week.

The new seals depict a colorful and jovial bell ringer ringing out the good news that tuberculosis is curable and preventable.

The county health department, along with the Columbiana County Public Health league, has prepared an exhibit on the campaign against tuberculosis explaining the need for a sanatorium in Columbiana county.

An entertaining motion picture picture entitled "Behind the Shadows" will be shown. This tells the story of how a doctor goes about finding a case of tuberculosis, and the treatment he uses to restore the patient to health.

There will be two pamphlets called "Tuberculosis Robs You, Public Health Protects You," and "Modern Weapons to Fight Tuberculosis," for free distribution.

Quartet Members
Take Teaching Jobs

Clair King and William Holloway, two members of the widely known Wittenberg college brass quartet, have entered the teaching field.

Dale Leipper is continuing his studies at Ohio State university, working for his master's degree. The fourth, Marion McArthur, who spent the summer in France, studying, is expected to arrive home soon.

His plans for the winter are indefinite.

King will leave Wednesday for Phillipsburg, and English in the public schools which open Sept. 20.

alloway has gone to Beaver Dam, near Lima, where he will teach music in the schools this winter.

Patrolman On Force
For Twenty Years

ALLIANCE, Sept. 13—James A. Coy will round out 20 years of service on the Alliance police force Sept. 17, taking his place as the oldest patrolman in point of service.

Only Chief Harry L. Stark, who in June completed 23 years on the force, has served longer.

Patrolman Coy joined the force Sept. 17, 1917, previous to which he had worked for the American foundry here.

EXPECT MOTIVE SOON IN MARINO "RIDE" SLAYING

Investigators Predict Information Within 36 Hours

CLUES SOUGHT AT FUNERAL SERVICE

Work On, Detective Says

(By Associated Press)
YOUNGSTOWN, Sept. 13—The motive behind the slaying of Roy "Happy" Marino, gambler and underworld character who was found murdered near Rogers last Friday, will be determined within 36 hours, Ed Schrecher, of Columbus, special investigator for Attorney-General Herbert S. Duffy, predicted today.

Schrecher has been working with Assistant Attorney General George Hurley, County Detective John Callan and Youngstown police on the investigation. The probes attended funeral services for Marino this morning in the hope of finding new clues.

Trace Movements

Hurley said yesterday that Marino's movements had been traced up to midnight Thursday, within about four hours of the time he was slain. After checking the information carefully, however, Callan concluded that it was unreliable.

While it was first reported Marino visited a road house near Vienna, 10 miles north of here, shortly after 9 p. m. Thursday, Callan said the proprietor was not sure whether Marino had been there Thursday or Wednesday night.

A mysterious black sedan, which early figured in the case, dropped from the picture last night when Callan said its ownership and movements had been checked carefully and were found not connected with the slaying.

"But we still have plenty of leads to work on," Callan said.

Checks Wheeling Angle

Schrecher told East Liverpool officials yesterday he was checking the possibility of a connection between Marino's killing and that of Mike Russell in what authorities believed was a "numbers game" killing in Wheeling, W. Va., two weeks ago.

He did not report finding any connection between the two cases, or of linking Marino with the numbers racket.

Police Are Hunting
Auto Thieves Here

Automobile looters were sought by police today, following reports of thefts Saturday night.

Ray Evans of Springfield left his automobile parked on S. Broadway, near E. State st., and when he returned early Sunday morning someone had shattered a door glass to obtain a blanket, sweater and car keys.

The person, or persons, who entered the garage of D. E. Parks, 209 N. Union ave., after 12:30 a. m., stole a tank of gasoline, a radiator ornament, an oil filter cap, and let the air out of one tire, police reported.

Schoolgirl Beauty Queen
Spurns Chances For Fame

Walks Out On Atlantic City's Miss America Contest After Winning Coveted Honor

(By Associated Press)
ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 13.—A soft-spoken, blue-eyed schoolgirl reigned as America's number one beauty queen today—much to the embarrassment of a steel pierful of city officials and beauty contest sponsors.

And while the officials, frustrated and weary, declared "she can't do this to us," Miss Bette Cooper, 17-year-old Miss Bertrand Island of Hackettstown and Miss America of 1937, went right on doing it.

"It" being a complete and wholehearted snubbing of the fruits of her victory: a six-week vaudeville contract, a $400 offer for five days on the steel pier, and a flying trip to Hollywood for a screen test included.

"No movies, radio or vaudeville for me!" she said today. "I'm going to stay in bed and get rid of this cold, and then back to school for me."

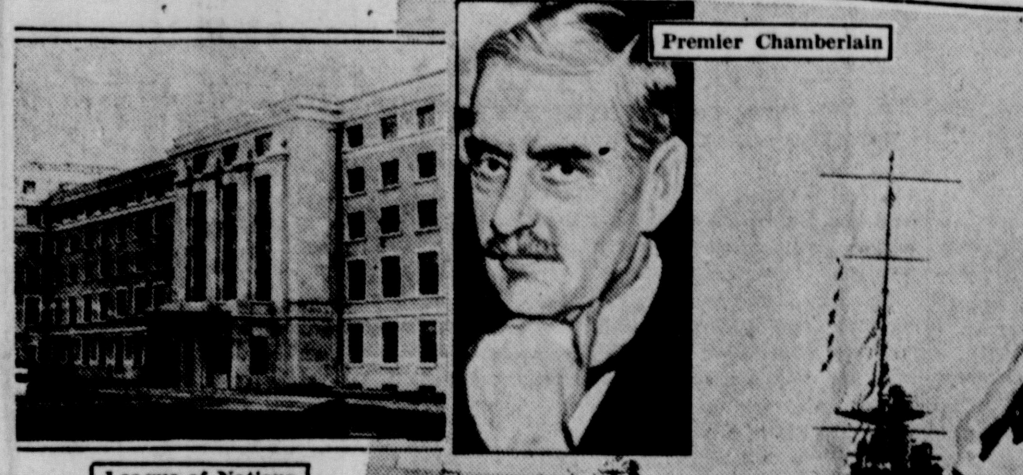

A streamlined youngster of 5 feet, six inches and 120 well-placed pounds, Miss Cooper is strictly an amateur beauty with no ulterior designs. She skipped from America's playground yesterday a few hours after her crowning, leaving behind a bewildered group of sponsors, officials and contract-padded dignitaries.

Mayor C. D. White, all the city commissioners, George Tyson, pageant director, Edward Curtis, chairman of the judges committee, and sundry others met in rapid, impromptu conferences.

They conferred and conferred but the answer still came out the same: "Miss America of 1937 was gone and what's more she wasn't coming back." "Very peculiar," they muttered, lifting eyebrows.

Meanwhile, tired but serene, Miss Cooper arrived at her Hackettstown home with a flustered escort of three young men and reiterated that as far as she was concerned the Atlantic City beauty pageant had passed into the limbo of well forgotten things.

Britain Key Power in International Crisis

(By Associated Press)
LONDON, Sept. 13—Already deeply involved in the Sino-Japanese affair because of extensive property holdings in China, Britain finds herself in an increasingly complex situation as regards international matters because of the crisis created by Russian charges of "piracy" against Italy.

In this latter respect, it is again the problem of keeping up its end in the Mediterranean—protecting the "life line of the empire"—that has caused No. 10 Downing street to consider the situation so serious.

Britain was first incensed when a torpedo fired from an unidentified submarine narrowly missed the British destroyer Havock.

Additional attacks by the mysterious "pirate" submarines followed, resulting in the Russian note of protest and accusation to Italy. During this time Britain was maneuvering to line up a conference of Mediterranean powers during the sessions of the League of Nations at Geneva. This plan was conceived when it became apparent

Friend of Marino

Russell was a friend of Marino, the attorney general said.

Ed Schrecher, a special investigator now in Youngstown, will go to Wheeling. Another assistant attorney general will be sent to Youngstown.

The attorney general said further that he intended to question soon Arch W. (Stub) Naylor, friend of Marino and alleged parole broker.

He plans to make a partial report tomorrow to Gov. Martin L. Davey on his investigation of the paroling of three men involved in a gun battle near Springfield which cost the lives of two officers and a bandit. The report will contain certain recommendations, he said.

Governor Davey recently removed Leland S. Dougan, chairman of the parole board, upon Duffy's recommendation.

CREDIT-EASING
PLAN LAUNCHED

Government Move Designed to Spur Business Recovery

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Sept. 13.—The government began today a new credit-easing course of action designed to assure continuance of the "easy" money which fiscal authorities have credited with spurring business recovery.

It provides, (1) for expenditure of $300,000,000 of the treasury's "frozen" gold hoard—the first release since the gold sterilization program was begun last December; and, (2) for open market purchases of short-term government securities.

This program was agreed upon late yesterday by the federal reserve board. Fiscal experts said it was a logical continuation of the board's recent policy of lowering rediscount rates of reserve banks.

It also marked, they said, a distinct reversal of the policy of tightening money rates initiated with the gold sterilization program. At that time, however, banks held large surplus lendable funds. The policy then was to prevent credit inflation.

Swings At Spider
And Cuts His Leg

A spider inadvertently caused Frank W. Fish, 33, of R. D. 5, Salem, to cut his right leg.

Fish was peeling an apple at his home, preparatory to eating it, when he espied a spider on the apple. Obeying the first impulse, Fish gave a quick sweep of his hand in order to knock Mr. Spider to the floor.

But in so doing, Fish cut his leg so severely with the knife he held that he had to receive first aid treatment at Salem City hospital at 5 p. m. Sunday.

FRANCE, BRITAIN COMBINE

League Hears Spain's Charges Against
Italy

(By Associated Press)
GENEVA, Sept. 13—France and Britain massed a mighty fleet of warships today to wipe out the mystery raiders of the Mediterranean as the League of Nations met to hear Spain charge Italy with private attacks against her merchantmen.

In the Spanish Mediterranean city of Cartagena there were unconfirmed reports that the crew of one pirate submarine sunk out that port last week may be alive.

There was no confirmation of reports that Spanish officials had received faint signals rapped out on the hull of the undersea boat. Spanish gunners said they sank the submarine as a pirate raider.

Would Answer Question

Should the boat be raised it likely would answer the grave question that has caused the most serious European crisis since the outbreak of the Spanish Civil war a year and three months ago. The Spanish government and Moscow, its ardent supporter, have flatly accused Italian warships of waging indiscriminate war on Mediterranean shipping.

Italy has counter-charged that the Valencia government is responsible for the series of attacks that brought about the determined French and British campaign to sweep the menace from their "life-line of empire." Italy, with Germany, recognizes the insurgent regime as the de facto government of Spain.

An ironic twist of league custom placed Juan Negrin, premier of the Spanish government, in the president's chair as nearly 50 nations met to consider his country's charges against Italy. A wartime premier, by right of rotation he was given the opportunity to make the keynote speech to the delegates who must hear two indictments of war aggression.

Never since the birth of the league—at the end of the last great war—has the world been in such grave danger of major conflict, some leaders declared.

Valencia Accuses Italy

The Valencia government of Spain accuses Italy of aiding her insurgent enemies and of sinking her merchantmen of the high seas.

From the other side of the world, embattled China accuses Japan of invasion and menacing the peace of the world.

The leadership of Great Britain and France, which brought so swiftly the "anti-piracy" accord at noon Saturday was expected generally to carry over to today's session as the initiative toward preventing new conflicts.

The two great western democracies looked to Italy—the nation accused by Spain of piracy—for the support which may insure the full success of their anti-piracy campaign.

With or without Italy, the patrol will go on and Great Britain and France will carry out the nine-power mandate given them to police the vital Mediterranean trade routes.

Constitution Week
Program Is Planned

Att'y L. M. Kyes, president of the Columbiana County Bar association, at the request of the American and Ohio Bar associations has appointed members of the county bar group to form a special constitutional observance committee.

Chairman of the Salem group is Att'y Charles McCorkhill. Other chairmen are: Devere F. Grappay, Leetonia; Robert E. Hall, Lisbon; Frank H. Hoover, East Liverpool; Raymond Knepper, Wellsville; L. T. Turner, East Palestine; W. O. Wallace, Columbiana; E. E. Black, Salineville, and K. T. Stouffer, Homeworth.

The committees will cooperate in the celebration of the sesquicentennial of the adoption of the Constitution of the United States by active participation in the observance of Sept. 17.

Members of the bar will proffer their services as speakers and will take active part in formulating programs for schools, churches, fraternal, civic and patriotic societies in order that the people may have brought to them the true significance of the Constitution.

COUNTY TURNS EYES TO LISBON

Three-Day Exhibition To Be Opened Formally
Tuesday

LISBON, Sept. 13.—This county seat village is preparing today to welcome several thousand visitors interested in that definitely American institution—the county fair.

Starting Tuesday and continuing through Thursday the Columbiana county fair will offer its guests an amazing resume of rural and other activities. So comprehensive that it includes both apples and draft horses, its attention to detail is still meticulous.

The visitor will find not one variety of apple but all types grown in this vicinity. Horses will include not only the animal of all work but sure footed trotters whose claim to distinction depends on swiftness rather than strength. And so on down the entire line of exhibits and attractions.

Two Big Days

Tuesday will be a "preliminary day." Some judging will take place then and most of the exhibits will be on view. But the important days are Wednesday and Thursday.

Then the fair may be seen in its full maturity. Races, contests, judging, fireworks and circus antics reach their peak in these latter days.

The speed events are a major fair attraction. The three-day plan governs these, with United Trotting association rules in effect. The pari-mutual betting system will again be in use. Ten per cent of the purse is set aside for the winner and the balance is divided among the heat winners.

There are three main races on Wednesday and the same number the day following. The purse for each event is $300. On Wednesday the speed events include the 2:24 trot; 2:19 pace and 2:16 trot. Thursday the events are a 2:24 pace, 2:20 trot and 2:14 pace.

Between heats circus entertainers will regale the visitors with a variety of entertainment. Acrobats,

PAROLE VICTIMS

Constant censure of parole practices lends the impression that parole must be wholly bad because no one ever says anything good about it. Nothing could be further from truth.

The idea of parole is sound. The practice of parole is corrupt. Where it is not actually corrupt, it is likely to be stupid, or perhaps haphazard. A good idea is being abused grievously.

Gov. Davey's promise that he will make a complete reorganization of the Ohio parole board and consolidate criminal agencies under a single strong non-political bureau is, therefore, genuinely important. This state has a chance to get somewhere with the parole idea if it can outsmart the politicians who misuse it.

It isn't the public which is the real victim of the dishonest and dumb things parole officials do. The public can take a lot of punishment without showing much effect. A paroled prisoner who gets into a jam always can be caught and sent back to prison, where parole may not be so easy next time.

The real victim of bad parole practices is the prisoner who could make something of himself if given a chance before a long sentence has squeezed all the ambition and self respect out of him. Every time an avoidable mistake is made, the parole system comes under a cloud of suspicion that darkens the prospects of thousands of non-chronic offenders whose entire hope of reclaiming their lives depends on its equitable and intelligent operation.

STANDING FAST

John D. M. Hamilton, chairman of the Republican national committee, gives his party and his countrymen something to think about when he sees nothing to be gained by a coalition with disaffected Democrats.

Though Mr. Hamilton says this is his personal judgment, not his official position, it is difficult to believe it will not become Republican policy. The logic behind it is sound, and so is the strategy.

As a national organization, the Republican party is the symbol of conservative political policy. Any attempt to sell it on another basis for the purpose of winning votes during a period when conservatism is a competing, even if at present a secondary, attraction to new deal liberalism would be blocked at the outset by the party's reputation.

The Democratic party is learning by its own experience what happens when a conservative party lets itself be untrue to its own convictions. Its members are confused. They don't know what they stand for, but many of them are increasingly certain they won't stand for being identified with the New Deal party that has taken over the Democratic organization.

Conservatism in politics wasn't a passing fad. It is the other part of a cycle which alternately produces liberal and conservative governments. The national Republican party has nothing to gain by being untrue to itself. It is the conservative party. It can afford to wait for the reaction to the New Deal's regime of expansive and expensive ideas.

THE STARS SAY:

For Tuesday, September 14

A particularly active and exciting day is presaged from the very lively operations of important planets. The abrupt, devastating and adventurous Uranian forces make for sudden upheavals, disruptions and radical changes. These may have important effects on the future fortunes. Change of every kind, romance and adventure are involved but be very vigilant about protecting writings and other property. Shun extravagance.

If This Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a year of sudden and radical change in their affairs, with new associations, environs and interests all furnishing fresh opportunities and excellent prospects if sagaciously handled in a constructive manner. Some losses or deep concern regarding writings or documents are presaged; also be careful with expenditures. Romance and adventure, with many surprises, are in the air.

A child born in this day may be versatile, ingenious, inventive, original and independent, with strong tendencies to travel, adventure and romance. It should have a successful career, probably a spectacular one.

O. O. MCINTYRE

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

NEW YORK, Sept. 13—Diary: Telegrams from the film funsters W. C. Fields and Ted Healy. So out and had a snack at a stool lunch and the counter-man and I grew grave over the muddled state of the world. Then to see Peggy Hoyt and Aubrey Eads, just back from the continent.

This day I was taken to task about the length of my hair and sundry sartorial neglects and made promises of neatness. Then to say farewell to Justice Hall and her mother against departing for Florida to live. And talking to Vincent Youmans newly come, also, from a stay in Europe.

To Fannie Hurst's dinner for Daniel Frohman and August Hecksher at Billy the Osterman's. Afterward strolling on lower Broadway and past the Marbridge building where I had my first New York office, and Keene's chop house where I used to lunch with so many now gone.

The most enthusiastic feminine night club patron is Beatrice Lillie. There is scarcely a night when she is playing in New York that she does not form a duo or foursome for a drop-in at one or more of the supper spots and if she is appearing in one herself goes to those that are snappiest at dawn. Night club entertainers like to see her at their tables, for she is appreciative and now and then, too, can be persuaded to step out on the floor and add to the hilarity with one of her own skits.

Entertainers are also going in for sports on the side with gusto. Jim Barton was among first to own and manage a semi-professional ball team on Long Island. Joe Cook is also owner of a team in Pennsylvania and Joe E. Brown had a heavy interest in a lesser league team. Al Jolson goes in for buying boxers and has the colored lightweight, Henry Armstrong on his string. The Marx Brothers also own the fighter with the comic name of Canvas Back Cohen. Bing Crosby's string of horses have cost him a neat chunk of hard-earned money but he claims the excitement worth it. Kate Smith is the owner of a professional basket ball team and Gertrude Niesen has a financial interest in Bob Nestel, the boxer.

For oblivion: Parsley and capers as garnish for food, parships, self plugs for radio entertainers, and that silly beautiful-boy publicity for Robert Taylor. Charles M. Schwab recently completed his 178th crossing of the Atlantic, thus making him America's No. 1 ocean voyager among paid passengers. Next to the steel merchant in the number of crossings is Gilbert Miller, theatrical man, whose number is far over 100. Mr. Schwab's years of ocean voyaging have, of course, taught him the trick of traveling light. He rarely takes a trunk and usually three pieces of luggage comprise his baggage. He travels with his valet and never makes plans. He may, after lunch, some day tell his secretary he wants to depart on a midnight boat. His passports are up to the minute. So carefully is his personal staff organized that he merely goes to the ship at sailing time and everything, cabin, deck chair, dining room place and all have been arranged. During many of his early crossings he suffered sea sickness, but today he can buck the heaviest gale without qualm.

My first crossing was in a 75-mile gale all the way on the old Mauretania. Just before reaching Plymouth I staggered to the cabin door, peered out and a steward swaying in the companionway, chirped: "A bit tippy, sir!"

Bagatelles: Max Beerbohm enjoys smoking only in complete solitude. Paderewski cured himself of insomnia by indulging fatiguing walks. Winston Churchill is a pushover for high button shoes with dove gray tops. Billy Rose has made the biggest fortune a showman ever made in five years.

Chant after an evening in the suburbs:
In a local train in the evening hours,
Traveling slowly back to the city,
Jammed with suit cases, babies, flowers—
It's not my idea of Sitting Pretty.

SCARLET FEVER

RECENTLY I have received many inquiries concerning scarlet fever. These letters show there is a great deal of confusion of mind concerning the prevention and treatment of this disease. For this reason, I may not be out of place to give you a review of modern progress in the development and application of certain methods of treatment for this disease.

For centuries scarlet fever has been known to afflict mankind. But it is only in recent years that the nature of the germ responsible for the disease was detected. Although the specific germ is not yet definitely known, it is now believed to belong to the "streptococcus" group. After this fact was determined, extensive research was conducted in the hope of perfecting a specific and curative serum for use in this disease. As the result of this work, there is now available a scarlet fever anti-toxin. This has been successfully used in the treatment even of severe cases of scarlet fever.

In addition, the serum has been found to be capable of immunizing an individual with the scarlet fever toxin. This guards against the germs and surely helps to prevent the disease.

"Dick Test"

All of this work has proved to be of great value. But perhaps of greatest importance was what is called the "Dick test". By the use of this test it is now possible to determine whether a child will take scarlet fever if exposed to it. It is believed that if a child shows a "positive" reaction after the test, it is well to give him the treatment which may produce protection against the disease. This is done by immunizing him with the serum.

Of course, this process of protecting against the disease must not be confused with the use of antitoxin in the treatment of scarlet fever. While there remains doubt as to its value, there is no doubt that the use of this remedy has reduced the dangers of certain complications of scarlet fever.

It is still a question as to whether or not the administration of the toxin is suitable for all children as a positive preventive measure of the disease. But the outlook is improving.

I would advise parents to consult the doctor concerning this treatment.

Answers to Health Queries

E. W. H. Q.—Will you please tell me what is good to overcome perspiring feet.
A.—For full particulars restate your question and send a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

A Reader. Q.—I have never seen in your column about an enlarged heart and kidney and how it acts and its causes and how to take care in a case like this. I have had this trouble for five years. I am under the doctor's care all the time.

A.—Any heart or kidney disturbance requires specific medical attention. Remain under the care of your physician and follow his instructions.

"THE CAPTIVE BRIDE"

by BARRETT WILLOUGHBY

CHAPTER XLIV

"Coward?" Van was on his feet, his eyes blazing with anger and outrage into the green flame of hers. "Yes! Coward! Quitter! You've given up! You've—"

"Little fool! You don't know what you're talking about! You've never in your life—"

"I know one thing!" Denny cut in, holding up her right hand on which the burn stood out, red and swollen. "If anything should happen to this, I wouldn't be fool enough to ruin my chances of recovery by dragging myself, day after day, with rum. I wouldn't sit idle, malingering at home, while people who tried to help me, I'd be too proud to lie down and quit! I'd—"

"Go ahead, Mrs. Bourne!" he prompted with sarcastic fury. "Don't strangle yourself, boasting of your feminine courage. Go ahead and tell us just how one of your wisdom and fortitude would deal with such a problem!"

"I will!" she flashed, taking a step toward him. "I'd get out doors and make some exercise that would keep me from getting flabby as a half-filled balloon. And I'd begin to train my left hand. I'd work with it night and day. I'd never give up until I could make it do the work of my right. That's what I, or any other ordinary woman, would do!"

Van Cleve, after staring at her departing figure for an instant, slowly lifted his left hand and scanned it as if he were seeing it for the first time.

When she reached her room, she was almost at the way in which she had lost her head. She recalled Van's pale face as he winced under her cruel, stinging words. Her innate honesty confronted her with her guiltiness in telling him how he should handle his problem when she knew she had made an irreparable mess of managing her own. Then suddenly she flung herself down among the cushions and all thought was blotted out in a passion of weeping.

Her emotional storm spent itself after a time and she came back to a consciousness of something that filled her with mild wonder. The blizzard was still roaring with unabated fury about the walls, but she was no longer fighting it. In that mindless interval of tears, she had somehow yielded herself to it, merged herself with it in a kind of mystic unity that was now rewarding her with the first relaxation she had known for days.

Later, when she went down to apologize to Van, she found him still in the card room. But the bottle of rum had disappeared. He sat before a table, meticulously, absently drawing geometrical designs—with his left hand.

The following Sunday morning, as Denny stood looking out the living-room window, the ding dong of the church bell came up sweetly through the falling snow.

She felt a rush of sympathy for the missionary. She had never visited his church and had no intention of identifying herself with any of its activities, but now she decided she would break the monotony of the day by going down to the morning service.

The second bell had just ceased ringing when she entered the tiny, barren vestibule. With hesitant steps she went on into the dim auditorium, her eyes taking in the hewn long walls, the windows thick with frost; the stove made of a gasoline drum, glowing red and sending out blasts of heat that scorched the face and left the back freezing; the portable organ quaintly wrapped in gray Hudson's Bay blankets to keep out the cold.

All the pews were depressingly empty except one where the Commander's native servant and three bundled-up Indian women sat quietly, their dark eyes fixed on the altar behind the chancel.

She did not know why she should be so touched at the sight of the Commander, very erect behind the chancel, facing his meager congregation like a naval officer on his bridge, his Church of England robes hiding decorously aloof from his sturdy, moss-covered feet. But when his blue eyes met hers in a glad look of surprise and welcome, her own misted so that she could only vaguely see as she slipped into a pew.

He began the service, his clipped, confident British voice barking out the announcements as if—as Harp had said—she were snapping out orders to a turret crew.

"Hymn Number 721!"

She watched him swing down out of the chancel, march over to the organ and seat himself before it, booting aside his robes to get his feet on the worn pedals. Like a small boy playing a piece, he concentrated on his hands, drawing preliminary chords from the stiff keys; chords thin and blurred, but somehow endowed with his own sureness. An emotional chill ran through her as his deep baritone took up the words:

"Lead kindly light, amid the encircling gloom,
Lead thou me on.
The night is dark, and I am far from home.
The voices of the Indian women, faint and high and sweetly uncertain, joined in; but after a bar or two died away, leaving the Commander singing alone. Denny attempted to help him but found herself unable to utter a note, because of a welling sense of tears in her throat. The Commander... far from home... dear and funny and splendidly gallant; asking no help from his kind, but carrying on alone against the ignorance and superstition and spiritual inertia of these natives for whom he had sacrificed so much.

She heard little of the sermon the Commander preached in his almost empty church; for in her was awakening something—elusive when she tried to name it—but higher and finer than anything she had ever felt before. It was an emotion compounded of many things—compassion for the Commander, for his flock, for every one in the world; and an impulse toward gracious, unselfish service; a determination to live up to that motto her father had caused to be carved across the mantel at River House—"Fortitude in Distress."

The spell was still upon her when, after the service, she invited the Commander home for lunch. And before she knew it, she was offering her services as organist every Sunday also promising to help him with his sewing class.

Her high mood wore off, of course, almost before the Commander left the house, and she began to regret her impulsiveness. But to her surprise, as time went on she began to take a pride in, and derive a great deal of amusement from her work.

St. Patrick's morning, sunny and bright after a week of storm, found Honey-Jo alone in her kitchen.

Harp entered through the back door in an aura of fresh air. His quick glance flicked the chair where Boom was usually sitting and he brightened perceptibly when he found it empty.

His eyes dwelt approvingly on the housekeeper while he rubbed his hands and sniffed the spicy air of the kitchen.

"A swell day, Honey-Jo!"

She nodded, tucking cinnamon sugar and a dab of butter into a round of dough. "The days are getting longer too—praise God! Spring can't come any too soon for every one in this household," she added cryptically.

"How come?"

"A blind man could see what's going on in there!" She nodded toward the door that led to the living room.

"Oh, every one gets on edge when they're peered up during the winter. They haven't started throwing the furniture yet, have they?"

"It's not tempers I'm talking about," explained Honey-Jo, vigorously rolling out a slab of dough. "It's hearts. Ever since Rio got tired of Derek, she's been making a sly play for the skipper. As for Van Cleve—he may have been a woman-hater when he landed here, but now he's casting eyes at Miss Denise, and she—"

"Now, now Baby!" Harp came over to the pastry table. "You're imagining things. You—"

She stopped him with a lift of one floury hand. "Listen! I'm merely seeing off the end of my nose. Half an hour ago, Miss Denise came running in here, pretty as a picture in her white Hudson Bay suit. She's laughing, and her green eyes are sparkling like her father's, when something pleased him. And all because the sun's shining today. She gives me a hug and says she's off for a hike on those snowshoes you made her for Christmas, and she wants a lunch. Then the doctor pops in—following her. She wants him to come along, but he ain't in the mood. 'All right, Lazy Bones,' says she, gaylike. 'Then hand over the chronometer—regulator of the sun, moon and stars!' 'He gives her his watch to wind and bends his head, looking at her and speaking low—thinking I can't hear. 'You are my regulator of the sun, moon and stars, Denny,' he says. Then Rio comes through the door, yawning. 'Ho hum! So begins another dizzy day in the life of an Arctic butterfly. What'll we do today, fellow inmates?'

"The doctor wants they should play three-handed bridge—he seems hell-bent to keep Miss Denise from leaving the house—but Rio tells him her intellect is too feeble for that. Miss Denise says, 'Nothing could keep me indoors on a sunny day like this!'"

Honey-Jo paused to turn and whip a pan of buns into the oven; and Harp drawled tolerantly, "Well, is there anything suspicious in that?"

"Wait, Capt'n Rev comes in the back way about then and invites 'em all for a dog-team ride to the lava beds, which none of them have seen. When Rio and Doc refused to budge, I was thinking, 'Praise be, the skipper, for once will have his wife to himself! But at that, Miss Denise, who was anxious to get out-doors a minute before, now pats Capt'n Rev's arm and tells him in that sweet way of hers, 'Thank you, Reval, but Van has just promised to show me how to play two-handed bridge! Can you beat that, Harp?"

The foreman made a dismissing gesture, but Honey-Jo forestalled the remark he started to make. "The Capt'n, poor lamb, lost all his smiling looks. But the next minute he's laughing. 'Okay, you hothouse blossoms,' he says, 'I'll see you all later.' And he flips his cap onto his head and goes out whistling. But he can't fool me. I know he thought it queer to see Miss Denise in her outdoor outfit—planning to play two-handed bridge. Satan's bells and panther tracks! It does seem to me—"

"Now, Baby. Don't start swearing. You just got the wrong slant on things. You've missed too many boats to the Outside. Honey-Jo, what you need is a change and a husband to look after you. A husband like me, sugar-mouth. Are you going to marry me, or not?"

"I am not. Take your dirty paw out of that bun."

"Aw!" He jerked the offending member up, glared at the circle of dough adhering to its palm, and

"IS IT GOOD BUSINESS TO BUY COSTLIER TOBACCOS FOR CAMELS?" — A QUESTION ASKED BY MANY PEOPLE

Camels are the Largest-Selling cigarette in America

ANSWER:

Think of what this means! The greatest pleasure for the greatest number of smokers ever given by any cigarette

AND this didn't happen by chance. Camels are the largest-selling cigarette in America — and in the world — because people can and do appreciate costlier tobaccos. Smokers trust those finer tobaccos in Camels to give them more of what they want in smoking. And that makes Camel's policy of spending millions of dollars more for costlier tobaccos "good business."

If you are not a Camel smoker, try them. Millions have given Camels the severest test — smoked them steadily — and have found more pleasure in Camel's costlier tobaccos.

ENOJO BENNY GOODMAN'S SWING BAND for a full half-hour!

Tune in Benny's popular swingsters — hear his famous trio and quartette. Tuesdays at 8:30 pm E.S.T. (9:30 pm E.D.S.T.), 7:30 pm C.S.T., 6:30 pm M.S.T., 7:30 pm P.S.T., over WABC-CBS.

"I have taken my share of big fish—mackerel and tuna. I know what a rod-and-reel contest with these heavy fighters does to a man's energy. When I've gotten a big fellow safely landed, my next move is to light a Camel. A Camel very quickly gives me an invigorating 'lift.'"

(Signed) REX BEACH, famous novelist and sportsman

"Camels' rich, delicate flavor appeals to a woman's taste. I smoke nothing else. So many of the girls in our crowd feel the way I do about Camels being extra-gentle to the throat."

(Signed) JOSELYN LIBBY, private secretary

"I can tell Camels are made from mighty fine tobaccos. There's a slight more goodness in 'em for one thing—real natural flavor that doesn't tire my taste. No sir! Camels come in handy, too, at the table. I like my Camels at mealtimes. They help my digestion keep on an even keel."

(Signed) GEORGE BUCKINGHAM, ship's engineer

"No wonder so many billiard champions, myself included, prefer Camels. I've smoked Camels for a long time. I say it was a happy day for me when I turned to Camels. For I found I could smoke a lot and never have 'edgy' nerves. I want to compliment Camels on their mildness!"

WILLIE HOPPE, famous billiard champ.

"I love the taste of a Camel. They're so mild. Even after steady smoking I notice no 'cigarette' after-taste."

(Signed) MRS. ANTHONY J. DREKEL 38.

"For digestion's sake — smoke Camels," is a rule with me. Camels help me enjoy my food no matter how tense I may be."

(Signed) LENORE KIGHT WINGARD, America's premiere mermaid

"Camels are different. They have the mildness I demand. When I say that Camels don't frazzle my nerves it means a lot."

(Signed) LEE GEHLBACH, famous test pilot

"Camels? I smoke 'em day in and day out. My throat is easily irritated, but Camels, being so mild, never have a harsh effect."

(Signed) CHARLES CHASE, locomotive engineer

COSTLIER TOBACCOS IN A MATCHLESS BLEND

Camels are a matchless blend of finer, MORE EXPENSIVE TOBACCOS—Turkish and Domestic. The skillful blending brings out the full, delicate flavor and mildness of these choice tobaccos.

Members Of L.C.B.A. At Niles Rally

Mrs. Earl Deville and daughter Lucy, Misses May Hagan and Margaret, Enriken, and Mrs. John Enriken, members of Salem Ladies Catholic Benevolent association, attended a Youngstown deaneary senate meeting in Niles Sunday.

The session was held in McKinley auditorium. Rev. Fr. Neil Gallagher, pastor of St. Stephens church in Niles, gave an interesting talk on his recent trip to Japan. A report was made of the L.C.B.A. convention held in Atlantic City in July. Short talks were given by Rev. Fr. Roach and Rev. Fr. Goodwin, assistant rectors of the Niles parish.

Refreshments were served during a social hour which concluded the senate meeting.

The next conference will be held Nov. 28 at the Jeanne d'Arc home, Lincoln ave., Youngstown.

Astry Family Reunion Held At Park

Members of the Astry family held their 39th annual reunion Sunday in Centennial park, with approximately 50 relatives present from Beaver Falls and New Castle, Pa., Youngstown, Tiffin, Toledo, Leontia, Washingtonville and Salem.

A business meeting was held after the dinner and officers for next year were elected. They are: Honorary president, Lydia Leach; president, Paul Astry; vice president, O. J. Astry; secretary-treasurer, Vance Freed.

In the absence of Historian W. H. Freed of Alliance, who is ill, O. J. Astry was appointed to act as historian, with Mrs. Shaul of Tiffin assisting.

The 1938 reunion will be held at Centennial park the second Sunday in September.

Piano Instructor Entertains Class

Miss Margaret Kirkbride, instructor of piano, entertained about 45 of her students at a coverdinner dinner Saturday afternoon at her home on North Ellsworth ave.

Following the dinner the youngsters held rehearsal for the fall recital on Sept. 24 when they will entertain parents, relatives and friends with a program in the Methodist church.

A number of novel and interesting features are planned for the event, which will be held in the upstairs Sunday school room of the church instead of the junior rooms, where former recitals have been given.

The recital will be open to the public and anyone interested is invited to attend.

Knepper Reunion Held At Park

The second annual Knepper family reunion was held at Centennial park yesterday with 45 members in attendance from Pittsburgh, McKeesport, Canton, Leontia and Salem.

A basket dinner was served at noon and the afternoon spent informally.

Officers were re-elected. They are: President, Mrs. David Gibson of Pittsburgh; vice president, Mrs. Alan Hise, Canton; secretary, Mrs. L. C. Messersmith.

The 1938 reunion will be held at Centennial park the second Sunday in September.

F. D. R. DEBATES WESTERN TOUR

Far Eastern and European Problems May Halt Trip

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Sept. 13.—President Roosevelt will bring to an end tonight his longest stay away from Washington this year when he leaves his family home a day ahead of schedule to consult with capital advisers on what he regards as "serious" world conditions.

After talking with the cabinet, probably some time before the regular Friday meeting, he will decide whether to remain at the capital indefinitely or go ahead with tentative plans to tour the west to gauge sentiment on administration objectives.

Some of his closest advisers are authoritatively reported to have urged him not to go west because of the far eastern and European crisis.

Others, it is said, have taken the position he should make the trip if for no other reason than that it would demonstrate a desire to keep the United States as far as possible out of foreign entanglements.

These authorities argue that if he remains in Washington undue stress might be put on every conference the President had on foreign affairs, and popular emotions unnecessarily stirred up. When the President leaves here late tonight he will have spent 18 days away from the White House. A cruise in eastern waters accounted for five.

COUNTY TURNS EYES TO LISBON

Three-Day Exhibition To Be Opened Formally Tuesday

clowns, tight rope walkers, animal acts and many performers will go through their routine in the large plot enclosed by the race track. Not least of these is a trick mule.

Nine Classifications

The exhibits are divided into nine general classifications. The first department includes speed horses and these entries are in charge of Geo. A. Rogers of Lisbon. The second department is show horses with L. R. Cobbs acting as supervisor. Other divisions include cattle under Van J. Morris; sheep, W. M. Travis; poultry, J. C. Gaston; swine, C. W. Heim; grain, seeds, vegetables etc., L. H. Copeland; textile fabrics, domestic manufactures, general farm products, J. E. Rice; educational and club work, J. H. Sinclair.

Thursday is 4-H club and school day. At this time the youngsters of the county will enjoy their in-lining. The majority of the county schools will be dismissed and the pupils permitted to attend the event.

Set aside by the fair board as an inducement to young entrants is the sum of $500. Part of this will be devoted to extra-fair activities by 4-H club members. But a substantial amount will be used for premiums. Club exhibits will be judged on the basis of membership, number of members exhibiting and the general quality of the work.

Special Awards

Aside from this are the awards offered in the educational department. School children with a special aptitude for drawing, writing, sewing, composition and manual training will compete for cash prizes. Even the first graders have a whack at these awards. The six-year-old who can write "My doll cries" or "The fox barks" has a chance to win a really staggering amount from the infant perspective.

J. H. Sinclair of Hanoverton is president of the fair board; Van J. Morris, vice president, H. E. Marsden, secretary, and I. C. Bean, treasurer. Standing committees include: Auditing, G. A. Rogers, L. R. Cobbs, C. W. Heim, finance, G. A. Rogers, L. H. Copeland and J. C. Gaston; printing and advertising, L. R. Cobbs, J. E. Rice and W. M. Travis; grounds, G. A. Rogers, W. M. Travis and C. W. Heim; music, L. H. Copeland, Van J. Morris, L. R. Cobbs; special attractions, G. A. Rogers, L. R. Cobbs and I. C. Bean.

Theater Attractions

Sonja Henie and Tyrone Power, two of the newest stars in films, are teamed in the romantic comedy, "Thin Ice", which shows to-night and Tuesday at the State theater.

Arthur Treacher, Raymond Walburn, and Joan Davis are featured in the notable supporting cast, which includes Sig Rumann, Alan Hale, Leah Ray, Melville Cooper, Maurice Cass and George Givot. The story is swiftly paced, and hilariously funny. Tyrone, a prince, comes to an Alpine winter resort to escape the bickerings of two agents (Alan Hale and Maurice Cass) over a neutrality pact, and accidentally meets Miss Henie while skating, and introduces himself to her as a newspaper reporter.

Agents Soon Follow

A case of mistaken identity sends rumors about the village that Sonja is being favored by the prince. The two agents, hearing the rumors, attempt to win her to their side in order to get closer to Tyrone. When she refuses, they dangle huge offers before her worthless uncle (Raymond Walburn), who is unable to refuse.

Although Sonja is still unimpressed of the rumors she continues to meet Tyrone. At the same time, the agents discover trickery on the part of Walburn, and through sympathy for each other, become friends. This makes the situation more complicated.

Interspersed throughout the romantic story are three elaborate skating numbers. In these ice innovations, Miss Henie executes her most intricate ice designs. Hundreds of girls are also in the sensational ice-revels, set against the beauty of the Swiss Alps. These innovations on ice are more elaborate and intricate than anything ever before attempted on the screen.

Songs include "My Secret Love Affair", "Over Night", and "My Swiss Hilly Billy", composed by Lew Pollack and Sidney D. Mitchell; and, "I'm Olga From the Volga", composed by Mack Gordon and Harry Revel.

Feature At Grand

Eleanor Whitney turns blonde for her role opposite Johnny Downs in "Blonde Trouble", the Grand feature tonight and Tuesday.

USED CAR PRICE INCREASE SEEN

Present Values May Not Be Matched In Years, Executive Says

Used car prices soon may start an upward swing in keeping with the general increase in prices of all commodities, J. B. Wagstaff, general sales manager of the DeSoto division of the Chrysler corporation, has informed the Harris Garage & Storage Co., local DeSoto dealers.

"Business indices show that price 'all down the line' have risen almost 2 per cent since 1933. In the last six months, rents and clothing have led the parade in the upswing. It is only logical to assume that used car prices, which have remained stable during the last few years, will follow in the wake of constantly rising commodity prices," according to Mr. Wagstaff.

"A visit to almost any used car lot will reveal that hundreds of good, reconditioned used cars are now listed at 'bargain basement' prices," Mr. Wagstaff stated, "prices that stamp these cars as values that may not be matched for years."

"The history of used car sales back in the 20's shows that not infrequently used cars one or two years old were sold for more than their original cost. While we do not predict a recurrence of this condition, we do believe that prices on good used cars will move upward."

WINDOW SHOWS HOW JOB'S DONE

Device Removes All Uncertainty In Cleaning Process

Some say that seeing is believing. In the matter of dry cleaning, you would certainly believe if you could watch the window in the solvent line, at the Paris Dry Cleaners plant, as the solution passes.

This window is in the line that carries the solvent to the filter after it has passed through any articles being cleaned.

The solvent, as it enters the cleaning machines, is crystal clear. You could read a newspaper through a considerable volume of it but it is actually black as it begins to pass the window, carrying with it the grease and other dirt that has been removed from the garments being cleaned.

As the process continues, hundreds of gallons of pure solvent continue to pass through the clothing and this process goes on until the tell-tale window shows the operator that only perfectly clean solvent is present.

Such equipment is not common. Few cleaning plants have it—none unless they are up-to-date. L. C. Price, manager of the Paris, uses only the latest and most modern methods of the trade.

Finley's To Cooperate In Series Planned By Philco

The Finley Music Co., today announced it is cooperating in a $50,000 contest being conducted by Philco radio.

The series of contests will feature the exploits of "Phyl" Coe, feminine detective, in solving a variety of murders, burglaries and other dramatic occurrences.

The mystery stories are presented on the radio each week. In each mystery problem, some of the facts or situations which lead to the solution of the mystery are given in the Philco mystery tabloid, together with a helpful diagram of the mystery scene. All of these facts or situations are made apparent in the radio dramatization.

At the end of each mystery broadcast, "Phyl" Coe, the detective, points to someone and says, "You did it!" and the contestant then selects the criminal from what facts he has and submits his solution.

HOME COOKING BUILDS TRADE

Owner Thanks Patrons, Asks Constructive Criticism

Hainan's restaurant, famous for its home cooked foods, is observing the fifth anniversary of its establishment in Salem.

From an obscure and inconspicuous start, this restaurant has developed into one of the leading establishments of its kind in Salem.

Its rapid growth and development have been based largely on the quality of its food. Every effort has been extended to maintain that degree of excellence day after day, month after month, year after year.

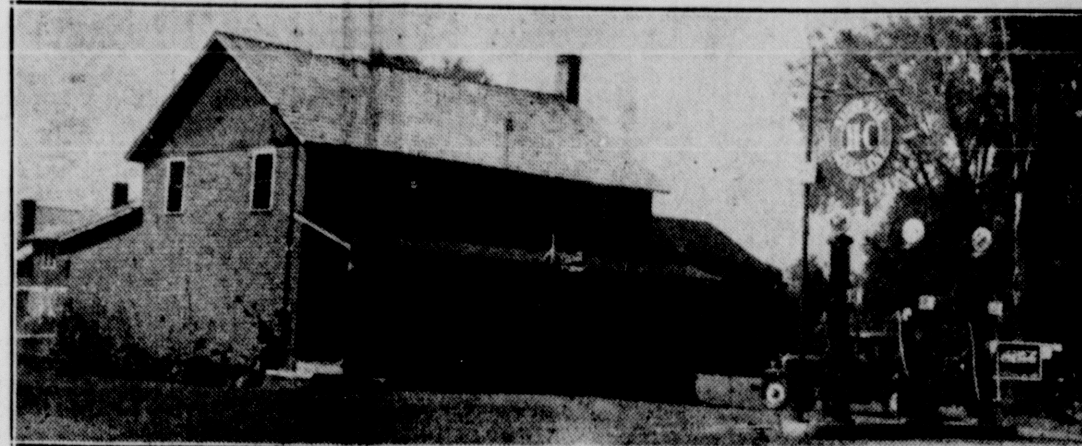

But, at the same time, other factors have not been neglected. Two among them are outstanding—cleanliness and service—which, next to the food itself, are certainly highly important to the customer.

On the occasion of the anniversary observance, Mr. Hainan, proprietor, today expressed his deep appreciation of past patronage and at the same time pledged constant efforts not only to maintain the same uniform quality of service, but to improve it wherever possible.

To this extent, he announces that he will welcome constructive criticism of any kind, at any time.

"We will do everything within our means," he points out, "to give our patrons the best possible in restaurant service."

G. B. Shrader's Berlin Center Sinclair Station

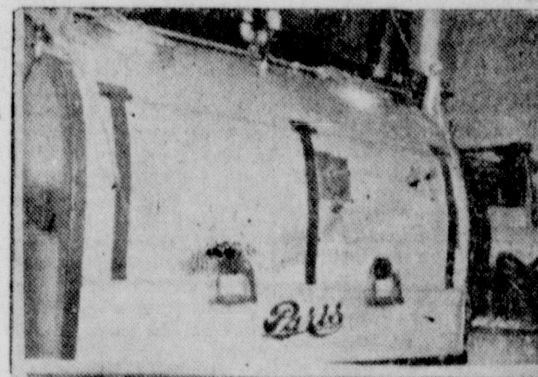

The G. B. Shrader Sinclair service station at Berlin Center is as busy a spot as you could imagine. Tucked away in this neighboring village, the station is the mecca for hundreds of motorists daily. Mr. Shrader points out, who prefer to stop at the sign of H. C. gasoline.

To most of these drivers, Sinclair "gas" is a known and proven product. Sinclair products, in fact, are in greater demand month by month, everywhere, as more people constantly learn of its superior qualities.

SALEM POLOISTS END PITTSBURGH WIN STREAK

LOCAL RIDERS GAIN VICTORY OVER N. HILLS

Moff Turns In Best Performance As Salem Club Wins, 11-9

The Salem polo club held its most important victory of the season today—an 11 to 9 triumph over the North Hills club of Pittsburgh, gained yesterday at Old Fairgrounds field.

It was the Pittsburgh team's first defeat in 16 games, ending a victory string that was the longest ever compiled by a polo club in the tri-state sector.

Excellent team work and masterful mallet wielding brought the Salem club its triumph. All of the Salem players were in top form with Ray Moff and Captain Jim Pidgeon leading the way in scoring, supported ably by Brooke (Pete) Votaw and Ray Murphy, who subbed for Owen Lewis of Alliance when the latter was unable to play because of illness.

Moff and Pidgeon each tallied three goals in the contest, while Votaw and Murphy broke into the scoring with two markers apiece. The other Salem score was on a pony goal.

Riding one of Lewis' mounts, Moff turned in his best performance of the season and outshone both Pittsburgh and Salem players in the three chukkers in which he participated. Moff was unable to ride his own horse because it was suffering from an injured leg.

From a spectator standpoint, the game was the best played at Old Fairgrounds field this summer. The contest was not one-sided at any point and it was not until the closing minutes of the last chukker when Votaw pushed a sensational side shot through the goal to give Salem a two-point lead that the victory was decided.

The teams played on even terms in the opening period, each scoring one goal. Salem outscored Pittsburgh three goals to two in the second chukker to gain its first advantage. Play was even throughout the third, fourth and fifth frames with each team scoring three times in the third, going blank in the fourth and tallying twice in the fifth.

The pay-off came in the final period after North Hills had tied the game in the preceding chukkers in an attempt to cut down Salem's one-goal lead.

At the outset of the last period, Pidgeon scored for Salem and Ingham tallied for Pittsburgh to make the count, 10 to 9, with Salem on top. North Hills then took control of the situation and time after time carried the willow ball down the field, only to lose it through a wide shot at the goal.

It appeared that certainly one of Pittsburgh's shots would roll between the uprights, but good fortune held with the Salem poloists and in the final minute Votaw crashed through with a neat side shot to put the victory on ice.

The Salem poloists will play at Alliance this coming Sunday and will return to their home field the following Sunday to meet Zellenopolis, Pa.

Summary of the game follows:

SALEM NORTH HILLS
Moff No. 1 Ingham
Pidgeon No. 2 Brock
Votaw No. 3 Foster

Spares: Murphy for Salem.
Goals: Moff (3), Pidgeon (3), Votaw (2) and Murphy (2) for Salem; Ingham (5); Foster (3) and Brock (1) for North Hills.

Pony goal: Salem.

Referee—Jack Hendricks (Salem).

Score by chukkers:

Salem 133 022—11
North Hills 123 021—9

NORTHERNS WIN ALL-STAR GAME

Two Runs In First Frame Give Northern County Team Victory

Two runs in the first inning gave the northern county All-Stars of the Columbiana County Baseball league a 2 to 0 victory over the southern county stars at Peace Valley park, near East Palestine, yesterday.

Four northern county pitchers, Patton of East Palestine, Evans of Negley, Burkhardt of Columbiana and Loudon of Salem, allowed but four hits and blanked the southern county team throughout the contest. Loudon pitched the last two innings of the game and retired his opponents one, two, three in both frames.

Call of Wellsville, Maple of East Liverpool, Riverviews, Rose of East Liverpool, Eagles and Ash of Newell, W. Va. pitched for the southern county team.

In addition to Loudon, three other Salem players—Gordy Scullion, Al Catlos and Paul Stratton—appeared in the game.

Canton, Akron Play For League Crown
AKRON, Sept. 13.—The Canton Terriers and the Akron Yankees will clash under the flood lights here tonight in the first of a series of games to decide the Mid-Atlantic league championship.

The two clubs won the right to enter the championship series and a share of the $1,000 prize money and the Governor's cup by winning separate semi-final tournaments.

Flanagan Captures Three National Swimming Titles

CHICAGO, Sept. 13.—Ralph Flanagan, the distance star from Miami, Fla., may have stolen the show in the 1937 National A. A. U. senior men's swimming championship, but young Otto Jaretz of Chicago did a "bit" part which indicates he soon may play a leading role among the nation's ace swimmers.

Flanagan captured three titles, annexing the 440-yard free style crown, the mile and the 880-yard grind, to completely dominate the meet which ended late Saturday.

But Jaretz, who is only 15 years old, drew a big hand in the final program as he finished third in the 100 meters event.

Peter Fick of New York's A. C. retained his title, staying off a rally by Paul Wolf of Los Angeles.

Wolf won the 300 meters individual medley, while Al Patnik of Ohio State university captured the three meter springboard diving crown.

TENNIS WORLD SERENE; BUDGE TOPS PLAYERS

Record Crowd Watches American Ace Win Championship

NEW YORK, Sept. 13.—The long, cruel tennis war has ended: Donald Budge has the national championship he needed in his business, and now there's nothing to do but worry for the next twelve months or so.

The worrying will be about evenly divided between Budge, who is now a very austere young man, and officials of the U. S. Lawn Tennis association, who put a pile of money in the treasury the past ten days because Budge was playing in their show. One more tournament like this, with capacity crowds the last two days, and they should be able to add a wing to their big stadium at Forest Hills.

When Budge won that fifth and final set from Baron Gottfried von Cramm of Germany late Saturday afternoon, adding the American championship to his "world" title won at Wimbledon, he parlayed himself, so to speak, into a very large sum of currency.

He could, by turning professional, assure himself something like $100,000, which is what both Elsworth Vines and Fred Perry, who preceded Budge into the money ranks, are popularly believed to have salted away in the past year.

But Budge has promised his old friends, the tennis fathers, faithfully, that he won't touch a cent of it for another year, at least. They are counting on him to help defend the newly-won Davis cup next summer, and to draw those bumper crowds through the gates at the championships again.

Budge, the unbeatable, is gambling this fortune of, say, $100,000 that he can play another year of amateur tennis without being beaten, and without being seriously injured. He's wagering that he can win Wimbledon, Forest Hills and his Davis cup matches again.

His best competition comes again next season from Van Cramm. Budge can't doubt to just that. But there is a young man named Bobby Riggs coming up, also from California. It took Van Cramm five tough sets to lick him in the semi-finals, and he won't be 20 until next year. Bobby doesn't make any secret of his intentions. He means to win the championship and then cash in. He will be in there really gunning for Budge next year, fresh and as full of fight as a tarpon.

The tennis officials need to worry only whether Don keeps his promise to give them another year of his valuable services. They are confident now that he will.

The tournament was the most successful yet from a financial viewpoint, and it produced a couple of worthy champions. Anita Lizana, the spirited little half-plum from Chile, proved as great a standout in the women's division as Budge did in the men's.

There's no saying when America will get its women's title back. Helen Jacobs, beaten before the final both at Wimbledon and Forest Hills, is about through. Alice Marble was defeated in the quarter finals by Dorothy Bundy, who in turn was overwhelmed by Lizana.

YESTERDAY'S STARS
ERNIE LOMBARDI, Reds and BOB WEILAND, Cardinals—Lombardi hit homer, drove in two runs, in 10-7 opener win; Weiland pitched five-hit shutout for 2-0 nightcap decision.

TOMMY BRIDGES, Tigers—Blanked White Sox 4-0 with three hits, fanning six.

TOMMY FRENCH, Cubs, TOM FADEN and JIM TOBIN, Pirates—French shut out Bucs 5-0 with four hits in opener; Faden hit four-for-four and Tobin pitched seven-hit shutout for 4-2 nightcap win.

HAL TROSKY and JOHNNY ALLEN, Indians—Trotsky hit homer, drove in three runs, in 6-3 opener victory over Browns; Allen won nightcap 6-1, allowing four hits and fanning five.

CLIFF MELTON, Giants, and MILT SHOFFNER, Bees—Melton handcuffed Bees with five hits for 3-1 opener win; Shoffner stopped Giants with one hit in 1-1-3 inning relief trick to save 6-4 nightcap.

COLONEL MILLS, Red Sox—Hit triple, two singles, driving in two runs in 13-6 win over Athletics.

Layden Believes Fans Too Optimistic About Notre Dame's Gridiron Chances

BY WILLIAM WEEKES
SOUTH BEND, Ind., Sept. 13.—Maybe Elmer Layden the thin man of Notre Dame, is a little more pessimistic than usual, but he is afraid of a lot of people are expecting too much from the makings of a pretty good fighting Irish football team this season.

Layden, a 24-carat pessimist about Notre Dame football prospects, can even run his eye over a list of 18 returning lettermen—at least one for every position in his squad of 85—without admitting that he will have more than a good, battling team out there nine Saturdays in a row this fall.

"We have 18 out of our 34 monogram men of last year with us again," he said in the gloomy Gil Dobie manner, "but I can't honestly see any real reason for optimism. We lack too many things right at the start, to expect to get through a schedule as big as ours, without something happening."

"We might," he admitted cautiously, "find we have a better team than we think—but we would need an awful lot of breaks."

Layden's biggest problem is the lack, to date, of a spark-equipped back who can do those three things in football—run, pass and kick. He had figured on Andy Pupils of Chicago, the most versatile of his backs, and regular quarterback in the last half of the 1936 campaign. The necessity of shifting his last year's number two quarterback, Joe Ruetz of South Bend, back to guard where he was a letter winner in 1935, apparently has defeated that move.

Unless a triple-threat back shows up, kicking ability may win a job for John McMahon, junior left half from Indianapolis. Pupils and Jack McCarthy of Chicago head the passers.

Notre Dame's experienced players are well spread over the squad, with 10 of them linemen. Off last year's work, the line likely will be Captain Joe Zwiers, Grand Rapids, Mich., and Len Skoglund, Chicago, ends: Ed Belnor, Chicago, and either Alex Shellig, New Castle, Pa., or Paul Kell, Princeton, Ind., tackles; Ruetz and Joe Kuharich of South Bend, guards, and Pat McCarthy, Toledo, at center.

Other linemen likely to get plenty of work are Chuck Sweeney, Bloomington, Ill., and John Murphy, South Bend, both lettermen; Jerry Clifford, Chicago, and Earl Brown, Benton Harbor, Mich., ends; Denney Emmanuel, Iowa City, tackle; Walt Marshall, Philadelphia, guard, and Ed Longhi, Torrington, Conn., and John Fogel, Chicago, centers.

Nevin (Bunny) McCormick of Livermore, Calif., stands out in a group of three monogram right halfbacks, the others being Jake Kovalek of Donora, Pa., and Joe Gleason of Chicago. The job of replacing last year's brilliant fullback, Larry Danborn, and Steve Miller, apparently lies between Ed Simonich, a rough, tough lad from Ironwood, Mich., who played sensationally against Ohio State but did little thereafter, and Mario (Motte) Tonelli, of Chicago.

Layden plans no radical changes in the famed Notre Dame style of play, which "will do all right as long as the boys do as they should."

The Irish open their schedule with Drake's Bulldogs at Notre Dame October 2, and on the next eight Saturdays, in order, run into Illinois at Champaign, Carnegie Tech at Pittsburgh, Navy at Notre Dame, Minnesota at Minneapolis, Pittsburgh at Notre Dame, Army at New York, Northwestern at Evanston, and Southern California at Notre Dame.

"Specs" are asking $50 a pair for tickets to Mike Jacobs' "carnival of champions" ... looks now like the show might do a half-million cocoanuts ... Attention, army: Carl Columbus Hinkle, Vanderbilt's fine center and captain, who hasn't made a bad pass in two years, heads for West Point as soon as he graduates ... Dr. Lou Little has his Columbia Grid-ders drilling in shorts and sleeveless shirts ...

The face of Bob Quinn, generalissimo of the Boston Bees, gets redder every time he thinks of how he tried to send Vince Dimaggio back to the coast ... In Baron Von Cramm's book, Bobby Riggs, the California youngster, is the second best tennis player in America ... The Giants are the only major league club to boast two Jewish players ... Harry Danning and Phil Weintraub, acquired from the Cincinnati Reds ...

Golf tip: When the new rule permitting only 14 clubs goes into effect next January, Henry Picard, the Hershey (Pa.) pro, will tote the following: Driver, brassie, No. 4 wood, Nos. 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8 and 9 irons, sand wedge or dynamiter, chipper and putter ...

Two regular members of St. Mary's football team are from the same high school in Ottawa, Ill., where Coach Slip Madigan graduated 22 years ago ... Denny Shute, the P. G. A. champion, has signed to tutor at the Miami-Biltmore club in Coral Gables, Fla. ...

Old Burleigh Grimes went out to the hill at Ebets field the other day to show the boys how to pitch in batting practice ... And George Cisar, a rookie from the three-eye league, hit three successive pitches into the left field bleachers ...

Ouch! ... Lou Ambers, the lightweight king, once rode the rails into New York to see Tony Canzoneri (his idol) fight Kid Chocolate ... Later, Ambers won the title from Tony.

BRITAIN IS KEY IN WAR CRISIS

Finds International Situation Increasingly Complex

ent that the Non-Intervention committee of 27 nations, brought together to deal with the Spanish situation, was not capable of meeting the emergency.

Balanced against this strategy on Britain's part, aided by the French, although with certain reservations on their part, is the accord between Germany and Italy. When it was recently announced that Mussolini would make his long-delayed trip to Berlin during the latter part of September, his decision was seen as evidence that the Duce was banking on being able to carry through plans for a "Berlin-Rome axis" which would extend Fascist influence in Central Europe.

British Investments Heavy
There are many who are inclined to consider the gestures made between Berlin and Rome as motivated more by diplomatic strategy than actual intention to push an alliance between the two powers. Both Germany and Berlin are believed to be jockeying for position so as to obtain the greatest possible concessions from Britain and France.

Britain's role as regards this situation thus far has been to avoid any open break by shifting her influence to keep affairs in balance as much as possible.
As regards the Sino-Japanese situation, the problem is one which involves British property and persons more directly. British interests in China are valuable and diversified, amounting to about $1,000,000,000. Outside of Japan, Britain is the largest investor in Chinese properties, particularly in the Shanghai sector.

The Peking Syndicate, British-owned, controls some of the richest coal mines in north China. The Hong Kong and Shanghai Banking corporation, another British property, is heavily interested in Chinese railroads and utilities. Both the mines and the railroads, especially the former, are objectives of the Japanese "campaign." This fact, and Japan's polite but unyielding answer to the British demand for redress because of the wounding of the British ambassador to China, has also added to the tribulations of Premier Neville Chamberlain and Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden.

What the outcome of all this international maneuvering will be is impossible to predict. But it is evident that Britain is finding it increasingly difficult to protect her farflung interests and play the difficult role that is hers in international affairs.

Tax Payers Throng Treasurer's Office

LISBON, Sept. 13.—"Deadline" taxpayers jammed the office of County Treasurer Olen Dawson Saturday morning in a last minute effort to escape the 10 per cent penalty effective today.

The crowd extended well into the court house corridor, requiring the office to keep open several minutes after the noon closing hour. Several tax payers left their payments with members of County Auditor John Irwin's office when they were unable to gain access to the treasurer's rooms.

Collections are expected to be somewhat below the figure reported in April. There are fewer special assessments and a comparatively large number of residents paid their entire annual tax during the December collections.

Here and There About Town

Pleads Not Guilty

George H. Morris pleaded not guilty to a charge of failing to stop upon a signal by a state highway patrolman when given a hearing on the charge in Mayor George Harroff's court Saturday. The case was referred to the grand jury.

The grand jury also will consider a charge of driving while intoxicated, placed against Morris by State Patrolmen F. S. Van Allen and R. I. Governor. He also pleaded not guilty on this count.

Had a Little Help

Helmut Kaeppler's white Leghorn chicken with the crooked leg has flown the coop.
But not without aid from the outside.

A thief broke into Kaeppler's chicken house on Olive st., Hillsdale area, sometime Saturday night and took three Leghorns and one Rhode Island Red. The "cripple" was among them, Kaeppler told police.

Boy's Finger Crushed

Thomas Stamp, three-year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Willis Stamp of 889 W. Pershing st., was treated for a crushed finger at Salem City hospital at 1:50 p. m. Sunday.

Plans New Home

Fred C. Glass obtained a building permit from the city today for the construction of a $3,500 home on W. Ninth st.

Another building permit was issued to Kenneth Zeigler for a $200 repair to a house at 253 E. Fourth st.

Scouts Will Meet

A court of honor for Boy Scouts of Salem will be held at 7:45 p. m. Thursday in the Memorial building. It was announced today by Scout Commissioner Eddie Howell.

Large Bulb Stolen

James Irey, janitor of the Home Savings & Loan Co., told police someone stole a 300-watt light bulb from the receptacle at the entrance to the building Friday night.

Goldy Will Speak

Lieut. Harry Goldy will be the speaker at the meeting of the Rotary club at noon Tuesday at the Memorial building. Russell Gibbs will be in charge of the program.

Quota Club Meeting

Salem Quota club will hold a business meeting following a dinner Tuesday evening in the Memorial building.

Hospital Notes

Miss Elizabeth N. Lloyd of New Waterford, has entered Salem City hospital for medical treatment.

Back On Job

City Meter Reader J. H. Campbell returned to work today, following an illness of several days.

Homeworth Program Attracts Hundreds

HOMEWORTH, Sept. 13.—Several hundred persons attended the annual Homeworth program here Saturday, with contests, speeches and numbers by the Alliance Drum Corps providing features.

Speakers included Edward A. Saltsman, principal of Minerva High school, and Atty. S. W. Crawford of East Liverpool.

Emphasize Health

COLUMBUS, Sept. 13.—D. H. Sutton, director of finance for the state education department, predicted today that more attention will be given this year to the health of Ohio's school children than at any time since 1931 when school finances were curtailed.

He said the program is designed to uncover sight, hearing and other defects and remedy them without cost except for actual hospital expenses.

CHARDON — Elizabeth Shaw, a waitress, received a letter from Arlington, N. J., containing a 25-cent piece. "For the girl who waited on me July 29 and who I forgot to tip," the sender explained.

ever always look as though he needed sleep.

Talks With Hess

At lunch in Burg castle I sat beside Rudolf Hess, Hitler's thick-eyelowered confidant and quickly discovered he had a sense of humor.

"Don't you have a hat, Herr Reichminister?" I asked him. Hess smiled.

"In Hamburg, which is a bit stiff socially, they used to say when I was in business, 'Oh yes, you're the man who never wears a hat!'" Hess talked of the Fuehrer's personal habits and said Hitler never sleeps more than five hours. He usually goes to bed about 1:30 or 2 a. m. and reads an hour before dropping off to sleep.

Natural sciences, military history and memoirs are his principal literary fare and he never gets into novels.

In the morning the Reichsfuehrer reads the newspaper in bed keeping in touch constantly with what the world is saying about him. He eats carefully, drinking only milk and water. He hasn't tasted meat in six years, and this is how his faithful adjutant believes he is able to maintain his strenuous life.

Cagey on State Affairs

On matters of state Hess was a cagey conversationalist. He did not matter about his bareheaded proclivities but when it came to discussing Reichsmarshal of Economics Hjalmar Schacht's reportedly impending resignation, that was another matter.

"Yes, I too have heard rumors about Schacht's resignation," he said in reply to a question. "They are frequently running around."

We rode back to the patient crowds ahead of Hitler, who descended from the hilltop castle to review the 100,000 troops in the marketplace.

It was all in a party congress day for Der Fuehrer, but it wore down an American newspaperman.

Judge Williams To Speak At Alliance

ALLIANCE, Sept. 13.—Judge Roy H. Williams of the Ohio supreme court will address a joint meeting of Kiwanians and Rotarians at the Alliance Woman's club Thursday noon.

The luncheon will climax the safety week being sponsored by leading industries and the two clubs and will displace the regular Rotary meeting Wednesday.

high point in the ground and did a complete somersault near the German home.

The mishap occurred at 9 p. m. Saturday. State Patrolman R. I. Governor said Kireta found himself on the wrong side of the road as a north-bound car, driven by Carl J. Hanna, of Star route, Salem, came around the curve. Kireta left the road in order to avoid a collision.

Charles M. Rogers, 64, of R. D. Columbiana, suffered lacerations and bruises when his car was swayed by another machine on Route 165 near Greenford at Midnight Saturday. Rogers' car then hurtled a ditch, crashed through a hedge fence, struck a tree and a telephone pole.

Mrs. Ada Conkle of Rogers, escaped with bruises when she was thrown from an automobile driven by Leroy Sprinkle, of East Palestine, when Sprinkle's car and another driven by L. J. Morris of R. D. 1, Columbiana, crashed at the junction of the New Waterford road and Route 7 at 1:45 a. m. Sunday.
